TCS this past week

- ∞ Grandin class have had a wonderful week. We introduced badminton in PE, as we have new badminton nets. The class had a great time learning to serve and play. We also really enjoyed making Yorkshire puddings in food technology. The results were really impressive and most of us had never made them before.
- ∞ Watson class have had a great time learning how to make scones in food technology this week. We washed and dried all the dishes and were excited to take our scones home with us. We also worked hard on our reading this week and learned some more laptop skills.
- ∞ Tajiri have been looking at crime and punishment this week and have learnt about how different punishments were delivered in various eras. They learned about tithings, ducking stools and various other forms of discipline as well as when the police force started.
- ∞ Davis class have created fact file pages for our class Egyptology book using research. We have made ancient Egyptian artefacts including models of sarcophaguses, pyramids and canopic jars for a future museum day.
- ∞ Williams class have had a science week, thinking about states of matter, electricity and food chains. The class really enjoyed the electricity lesson, and got to make a circuit.
- ∞ This week, Turing have been investigating the various causes of the feud between Charles I and the government. In English they have been working hard to understand where the correct place for paragraphs to begin is and apply this in their work.
- ∞ English for Beadle class has been focused on the importance of using correct grammar and punctuation to ensure the writers meaning and intention is understood. Beadle have also been working on application forms to help on our journey to adulthood
- ∞ In English Thunberg have started looking at scripts. The class have enjoyed re-enacting The Gingerbread Man, taking it in turns to be different characters and also writing their own scripts which ranged from incidents in the classroom to aliens named 1 and 2 !
- ∞ This week Eilish have had a strong focus on design and technology: three members of the class have been working on designing and assembling a tech deck skatepark, working out how best to use different materials.
The remainder of the class have assembled complex designs using national Lego challenge sets

Webinars, Links and Resources

2nd October marks the start of Mental Health Awareness Week.

Did you know that mental health support advice is available on our website via the worried or anxious button in the banner at the top of the page?

Alternatively, this link will take you directly to the page: <https://thecavendishschool.org.uk/feeling-worried-or-anxious/>

Younited, the Cambridgeshire and Peterborough NHS provided service also has digital resources to support and direct you. You can find these at <https://www.cpft.nhs.uk/younited/>

Outstanding value shown this week

School Value: Reflective – Elliott KD. Transition from the summer holidays back to school life can be particularly difficult for autistic young people. Elliott has worked so hard to reflect and work on strategies for regulation to support his return and we are so proud of him for how he has managed this!
