TCS this past week:

WATSON – Enjoyed making cookies in their cooking lessons. Some pupils added chocolate chips and marshmallows.

TAJIRI – Had fun doing a soil erosion exercise in Science. In PLG they tried barrier games with coloured blocks to develop their communication skills.

THUNBERG – Have created their own DVD covers, linking to their media studies topic in English and line of enquiry on human rights.

WILLIAMS – Enjoyed cooking cookies in their cooking lessons. They were all very creative.

GRANDIN – Have started a media studies topic on Robin Hood and have been writing speeches for the Prince.

DAVIS – Have been exploring controversial figures in English. They researched Robin Hood and his Merry Men and asked whether what he did was justifiable.

TURING – Have had discussions and debates around Britain's colonial history and the long-term implications of the British Empire in History.

EILISH – Have worked hard on completing their accommodated exam papers.

LAWSON – Have made a good start to the term and have been completing their accommodated practice papers in GCSE subjects.

BEADLE – Some of Beadle enjoyed a Police employee encounter. They had the opportunity to learn about working in the police force and were able to sit in the police car and hold some equipment.

BANNEKER – Have been completing their GCSE exams and revising. They have looked at work experience options for after exams and talked about prom.
